Vienna, June 9. Several Gentlemen belonging to the Duke of Neuburg, are arrived here, and they ſay their Maſter is not far behind; they left him at Oetingen in Bavaria, with intention to follow them in a day or two. The Diſpenſation neceſſary is arrived from Rome, for the celebrating the Marriage between the Archdutcheſs Anne and the Prince of Neuburg. The Rebels in Hungary continue to give out that they will very ſuddenly attempt ſome place, which they may make their Magazine; but we are confident the General of the Imperial Forces will be ſufficiently able to diſappoint any deſign they may have. It is ſaid that the Emperor hath cauſed the Propoſitions which have been made at Nimeguen for a Peace to be communicated to the Dyet at Ratisbonne. From Poland we are aſſured, that the Peace between that Crown and the Port, is Ratified by the Grand Signior, which the Moſcovites are not pleaſed with, who had promiſed themſelves the aſſiſtance of the Poles in the War they are likely to have with the Turks, of which they not only find themſelves diſappointed, but likewiſe, that all occaſion of miſunderſtanding between the Turks and the Poles is now taken away.
